

A hand holding a wooden staff against a blue sky background. The staff is curved and made of light-colored wood. The hand is dark-skinned and is gripping the staff near the bottom. The background is a clear blue sky with some light clouds.

“We trust PricewaterhouseCoopers FTS, their speed and efficiency. The biggest benefit is their knowledge and experience because the consequences of not doing it right are too significant to contemplate.”

Speed and accuracy is of the essence

Friday p.m.	Upon being served with a subpoena, Acme Corporation calls outside counsel. They, in turn, contact PricewaterhouseCoopers FTS.
Saturday a.m.	FTS investigators arrive at all Acme’s offices simultaneously, rapidly map data in the company’s IT universe and search for any document destruction. With data secure, Acme records that they are in compliance with the preservation order.
Monday a.m.	FTS finalises strategies for Acme’s counsel to cull, search and review all materials and begins to lead them through the data.
Monday p.m.	Counsel continues review of responsive data. Relevant files are identified and subject to privilege review. Document production begins.
Thursday p.m.	Acme delivers the first production set along with proof of their compliance with the preservation order.
Outcome	The regulator notes that Acme cooperated fully and was extremely responsive to their investigation.

Note: This timeline is based upon an actual case. The duration of a case can vary greatly depending on a number of factors, including the extent of the corporation’s IT universe, the volume of files, the nature the discovery request and the preparedness of the company involved.